What is TICTeC?

Hosted by UK not-for-profit mySociety, TICTeC is ‘The Impacts of Civic Technology Conference’. TICTeC is the world’s only conference dedicated to exploring how Civic Technologies are impacting societies across the globe. TICTeC convenes pioneers of research and technology, to showcase and scrutinise innovative digital solutions to complex societal challenges. At its most effective, Civic Tech can save lives, protect environments, and mobilise citizen task forces in times of crisis. Attended by policy makers, researchers and tech giants alike, TICTeC has been successful in shining a light onto the real-world impacts of Civic Technology. Now in its 10th year, TICTeC has a track record as an energising and inspiring event not to be missed.

TICTeC 2024 will be held on 12 & 13 June in London and will be accessible worldwide. Taking place during London Tech Week, TICTeC 2024 will focus on the role of Civic Tech in:

- safeguarding and advancing democracy & transparency where it is under threat
- meeting the challenge of climate change

A key element of TICTeC is that we directly provide travel and accommodation grants for delegates from underfunded organisations operating in less open jurisdictions, with a focus on the global south. Our generous sponsors enable this to happen so the conference can benefit from their contributions and shared learning.

TICTeC is so much more than just helping to bring together the best minds in civic tech and digital democracy for a few days; it bolsters the global quality of digital democracy in the long term, solidifying an international network of digital democracy specialists armed with the skills and knowledge to instigate real change in how democracy can be developed and practised, for the benefit of citizens everywhere.

The impacts of TICTeC

We asked TICTeC attendees (many of whom have attended TICTeC multiple times), if and how their attendance at TICTeC had shaped their ideas, actions and future strategies, in order to clearly determine how TICTeC has catalysed ‘real world’ impact over the last 9 years.

These impacts have been possible in large part due to generous sponsorship over the last nine years, and we are excited about the further benefits we will see from TICTeC in the coming years.

We found that TICTeC has led to:

- The improvement of civic tech projects & research

  “Many ideas and references from these TICTeC sessions have been essential in generating the framework for my current research.”

  “I was exposed to the research of the IDS which is proving very useful to my own work.”

  “Each year TICTeC challenges me to rigorously consider the impact of my & my peers’ work.”

- New research partnerships & collaborations

  “I developed a partnership with researchers at the MIT Gov/Lab because we’re both regularly at TICTeC.”

  “TICTeC has allowed us to develop a network of like-minded partners to bounce ideas off of and to partner with on our work.”

- Exposure to new thinking, ideas & projects

  “I learnt strategies from peers who’ve been operating in that context for much longer.”

  “TICTeC exposed me to new ideas, connect with incredibly helpful people, & to generally learn about new trends from around the world.”

- New grantmaking

  “I connected with new funders at TICTeC that has led to grants and opportunities to submit grant proposals.”

- Exposure of work of local communities in host cities

  Side events are often hosted before and after TICTeC by local organisations who are keen to take advantage of TICTeC’s global audience.
We believe that the above impacts lead to:

- Better digital democracy globally
- More understanding of what works & does not
- Real change led by citizens
- Faire societies & faster decarbonisation

<td>“At conferences on open data and civic tech you often hear people discuss ‘This is the project I’m working on’ - I think TICTeC stands out as an example where it’s about the lessons learnt rather than the activities. The focus on ‘This is the impact we’ve uncovered by doing this project’ sets TICTeC apart.”</td>

Why sponsor TICTeC 2024?

Sponsoring TICTeC 2024 helps you to:

- Demonstrate your organisation’s commitment to advancing the research and practice of technology for good, so better outcomes are achieved by all
- Build visibility for your brand
- Demonstrate thought leadership within one of the most important sectors for the future of democracy and engagement
- Share your organisation’s projects, products and expertise with attendees actively using and looking for new technologies
- Connect with and learn from experts in using technology for social good from across the world
- Engage with current and potential clients (see who attends TICTeC at the foot of this page)
- Demonstrate your organisation’s commitment to transparency and accountability
- Demonstrate your organisation’s commitment to diversity and inclusion, as sponsorship enables TICTeC to directly provide travel and accommodation grants for delegates from underfunded organisations operating in less open jurisdictions, with a focus on the global south.

Where many tech conferences provide a platform for organisations showcasing new or existing digital tools or components, TICTeC is unique in that it is specifically focused on research. The majority of speakers will be presenting evidence-based research to demonstrate the impacts of Civic Technology.

It’s one of the few opportunities for those working and interested in Civic Technology to come together in person to share experiences, knowledge, research, and code, to ensure that the wheel isn’t constantly being reinvented.

Why does TICTeC matter? Because Civic Technologies represent the future of democratic engagement. TICTeC allows us to pause, examine what works, and, crucially, what doesn’t — and ensures that we are all on the right path to making the world more inclusive, more equal, and more transparent.
